

CONTENTS

Introduction: The importance of heroes – Sambit Bal	1
The virtues of being little – Gideon Haigh	11
The view from the other end – Rahul Dravid	15
A room in Bulawayo – Telford Vice	22
Perth 1992: A lad against lions – Harsha Bhogle	28
'I tend to get overconfident very easily' (1995) – Interview by Rohit Brijnath	33
My 4am friend – Yuvraj Singh	43
Waking up to Sachin – Santosh Desai	49
Stricken but soaring – Tanya Aldred	54
The enthusiastic imp – Sidharth Monga	59
The man who made you plan for weeks – Allan Donald	66
Chennai 1999: When he was Tolstoy – Suresh Menon	72
David to a thousand Goliaths – Mark Nicholas	77
A bit of him in foreign fields – David Hopps	83
Young, poised, close to perfect – Greg Chappell	90
Our quest for the real Sachin – Rahul Bose	96
'I don't let my natural instincts get confused by unwanted thoughts' (2009) – Interview by Sharda Ugra	99
The use of weapons – Jon Hotten	116
Supernova incipient – Ayaz Memon	121

An Australian sort of hero – Christian Ryan	129
Man-child superstar – Rahul Bhattacharya	133
Apt pupil – John Wright	138
The first of a hundred – Ayaz Memon	144
The reinventionist – Aakash Chopra	151
Forever the icon – Ed Smith	157
Enough about the hundredth – Sharda Ugra	161
The bringer of infinite possibility – Soumya Bhattacharya	165
Seventy-four to finish – Sidharth Monga	171
A touch of Viv – Sanjay Manjrekar	178
Greatness is a long-distance race – Andy Zaltzman	183
‘To see the ball race past the bowler to the boundary was a great feeling’ (2012) – Interview by Pradeep Magazine	190
The small enforcer – Mukul Kesavan	201
A generation’s Model T – Siddhartha Vaidyanathan	208
Gifts, appetite, game sense, and very little Bengali – Sourav Ganguly	213
Here at the end of all things – Rahul Bhattacharya	221
The saint – Greg Baum	229
A hero for his time – Osman Samiuddin	233
The master morale-booster – VVS Laxman	238
The last zenith – Sidharth Monga	243
A singular idol – Mike Marqusee	256